Shemesh to Deploy Techs Across the US During Covid-19 In Support to Customer Base

Shemesh Automation Wet Wipes, a premium maker of canister wipes downstream packaging Turnkey Lines, to support its US customer base during COVID-19.

As of now, Shemesh has temporarily relocated 3 of its “essential” after sales professionals into the region. The decision took place as clients are currently working around the clock to meet demand in a zero-downtime tolerance environment.

Mark Calliari, Shemesh Automation’s Director of North American Operations, commented: “with our nonwovens related installation base seeing dramatic increase over the past few years, the decision to boost our client’s confidence by being closer to them right now was a pretty straight forward one for us to make given the ongoing COVID-19 environment. These are not ordinary times, and even more so for the vital nonwovens industry in which we operate very intensively. I want to personally thank US Senator Ron Johnson for his help with clearing the path in letting some of our techs pass through the US border for this incredibly important task. I feel pretty proud and honored in taking part in Shemesh.
