For Immediate Release

Shemesh Automation Wet Wipes debuting breakthrough technology at Index17
(4-7 April, Geneva, Switzerland. Stand 2261)

Shemesh Automation Wet Wipes (SAW), a global leader in nonwovens downstream packaging, is continuing to impress visitors to Index17 (Stand 2261) with the launch of its Citadel monoblock packer for round wipes in flexible packs.

Offering cinema screen demonstrations of the Citadel at Index 17 the largest global meeting place for the nonwovens market, its suppliers and customers until 7th April, the SAW team is also on hand to discuss their full line-up of nonwovens packaging machines including full turnkey lines for round wipes in canisters, and buckets.

Already sold to a major wet wipes manufacturer, the Citadel is a complete all-in-one monoblock packer designed for round wipes in ready-made bags.

With the Citadel, bags are stacked in a magazine and fed into a rotary index table where they are automatically opened, loaded with wipes, liquid filled, QC'd, sealed and discharged.

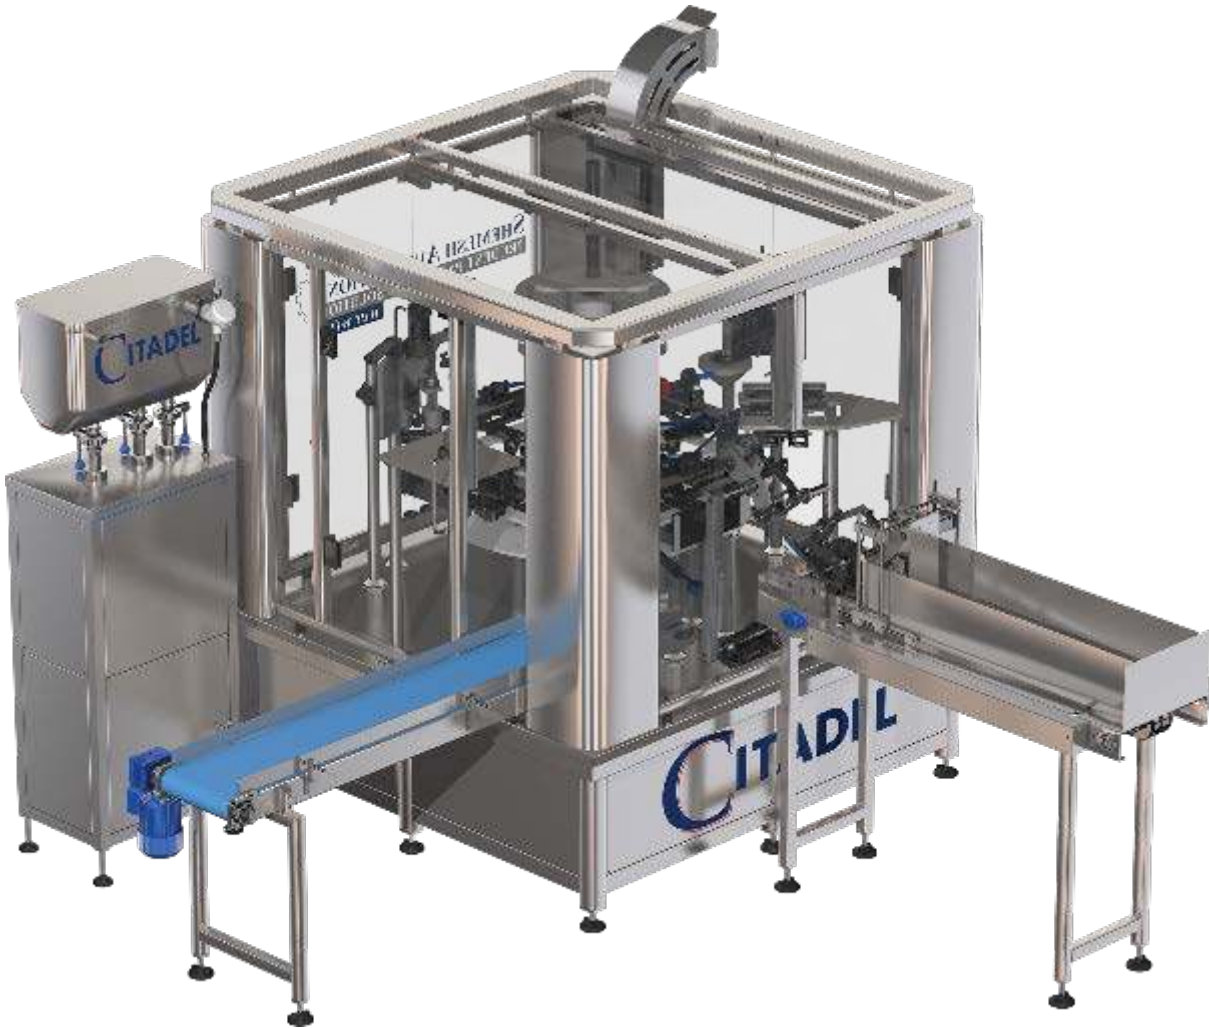

Benefiting from top out-of-the-box Israeli engineering, the Citadel offers a throughput of up to 30 products per minute and is made to service the jumbo rolls (J Series), standard wet wipes in flexible packs and refill markets (R Series).

Managing Director Shai Shemesh commented: We are delighted with the response of Index17 visitors to our new Citadel machine. The interest in Citadel, and our world-renowned loading, filling, sealing capping and labeling machines and complete turnkey lines has been phenomenal so far and we look forward to ending the show on a high".

For more information on SAWW and its range of nonwovens packaging technology, visit the team at Index17 (Stand 2261).
